Dear Francesco, I hope you are feeling better, I heard you were down with a serious bronchitis? Well, I feel like shit about not being able to get you here in April. The economic crisis hit Turkey really bad this time, my funds were sapped, and projects put on hold, and although I can still get some colleagues here, it is done naturally with the aid of places like the BC or the Goethe Institute, something the Italians are pretty short of, and Americans have never heard of!

I am still scrambling around, please bear with me until I get the house back in order.

Warmest,

VK
